HTML: Hi CSS: .foo[data-action=foo] { background-color: red; } JS: $('foo').on('click', function() { alert('foo'); }); The above will alert "foo" when I click the button, but how do I get it to alert when the button is clicked? A: The data-action attribute is just a way to trigger the action on click or other events. The correct way to style it is like this: .foo[data-action] { background-color: red; } You should not be using the . notation to make a selector like this. Demo Note that
